Sound City is thrilled to confirm an incredible array of exciting new names for the UK's first festival of the year. Famed for showcasing the most exciting acts in the world right now, Sound City is a thrilling three day rock n' rollercoaster and a first opportunity to catch the globe's most boundary pushing artists in one place before they hit the summer festival circuit. Last year saw Mercury Music Prize winners Alt-J, Jake Bugg and Django Django perform before the bands released critically and commercially acclaimed albums later in the year and previous performances have included early shows from Florence and the Machine, The Maccabees and Ed Sheeran. Sound City is a snapshot of everything that is vital in music right now.

Noah and the Whale are used to playing huge venues but will play a much more intimate show in Liverpool at the Anglican Cathedral, the perfect setting for a much fuller sound that belies their more folksy beginnings. The band release their fourth album 'Heart Of Nowhere' in May and will showcase tracks from it at this very special show.
